Oz is Hall right

OZZY Osbourne is an official rock legend. Last night Ozzy, 56, was inducted with his former band Black Sabbath into the UK Hall Of Fame at a glittering ceremony in London.

The event, at Alexandra Palace, honoured rock greats The Who, Bob Dylan, Pink Floyd, Jimi Hendrix, Joy Division/New Order and The Kinks, as well as the late John Peel.

Among stars there were Slash, 40, Eurythmics Dave Stewart, 53, and jazz hobbit Jamie Cullum, 26.

Hosted by Dermot O'Leary, 32, the event will be screened tonight on Channel 4.

CAUGHT LIVE

Alanis Morissette
King's College London

"THIS is my favourite gig I've ever done in London," says Alanis Morissette just two songs into a top secret show in the capital.

Performing in front of an invited audience for Virgin Radio the bawdy Canadian, left, has punters eating out of her hand.

Thrashing around with a sparkly guitar, Morissette, 35, bashes through her big hitters.

Every girlfriend in the building shrieks the boyfriend-bashing You Ought To Know into their nearest and dearest's ears.

Light on new material though, but no one appeared to mind.

CAUGHT LIVE

Funeral For A Friend
Brixton Academy

THIS Welsh fivesome have become one of the UK's best post-hardcore bands and it's easy to see why.

"I wanna see you jump around like crazy mother*****s," screamed frontman Matt Davies.

The pumped-up crowd obliged with sweat-soaked grins on their faces. A confident and sharply executed performance, with the audience hanging on his every word.

News in brief

CANCER BLOW FOR ACE

SNOOKER ace Paul Hunter has been dealt a new blow after being told his cancer levels have increased.

The 27-year-old from Leeds, set to become a dad, was out of the game for six months after being diagnosed with neuroendocrine tumours in his blood in March.

He had chemotherapy, but now tests have shown levels have gone up again.

TESTS: Hunter

Bank swap fears

NEARLY a quarter of people are unhappy with their current bank account – but will not change it.

During the past five years only 1% of dissatisfied customers have switched accounts, according to High Street bank Abbey.

Nearly a third have banked with the same group for more than 20 years, and 48% have been with them all their lives. Most stick with their bank because they believe switching would be an administrative nightmare, with 73% saying they thought it would be more hassle than it was worth.

GIRL ON STAB CHARGE

VICTIM: Natasha

A SCHOOLGIRL accused of a scissor attack on another pupil is to stand trial.

The 14-year-old, who cannot be named, appeared at a youth court in Woking, Surrey, yesterday for GBH. She was told the case was so serious it must go to crown court on Tuesday.

Natasha Jackman, 15, had eye surgery after being stabbed five times in Camberley, Surrey, last Thursday.

Free parking plea

A BUSINESS group yesterday called for a suspension of parking charges in towns throughout December and January to boost consumer spending in shops.

The move would give shoppers an incentive to spend at town centre stores rather than retail parks and supermarkets where parking is free, said the Forum of Private Business (FPB).

Spokesman Rex Garratt said: "Exorbitantly high parking charges in cities and town centres are forcing a mass exodus to out-of-town malls where parking is free and shoppers actually feel welcome."

COKE SHAME OF STAR

JAILED: Mark Ward

SHAMED former Premiership soccer star Mark Ward has spent the first time since being jailed for drugs offences.

The ex-Everton player admitted possessing cocaine with intent to supply at Liverpool Crown Court last month.

Speaking last night from the city's Walton prison, where he is serving an eight-year sentence, Ward, 42, said: "I feel gutted at what I have done. I will always regret it."

Thrill riders' ordeal

SIX thrill-seeking tourists were left dangling 800ft above the ground for more than an hour when a power cut halted a white-knuckle ride.

They were trapped at the top of the skyscraper Stratosphere hotel in Las Vegas aboard the X-Scream ride which shoots passengers out from the rooftop.

A hotel spokesman could not explain why staff did not use a manual override that allows workers to bring the X-Scream back to the observation deck in emergencies. Five of the rescued tourists were later treated in hospital.

WELL-OILED:
Carol staggers out of the Rovers, to the disgust of Jamie and Frankie

Carol down and out

CORRIE hunk Jamie Baldwin is devastated after mum Carol gets steaming drunk in the Rovers – despite vowing to stay sober.

Alcoholic Carol (Lynne Pearson, 42) staggers out of the pub and into Jamie

He picks her up after she takes a tumble and drags her back to the Baldwins, accompanied by stepmom Frankie (Debra Stephenson, 33).

To make matters worse, the scene is watched by Jamie's cheating ex Leanne (Jane Danson, 27) and factory girl Joanne (Zaraah Abrahams, 21).

The episode will be shown tomorrow on ITV.

BLACK WIDOW: Chrissie

Killer diaries deal for Chris

by LAURA NEIL

ACTRESS Tracy-Ann Oberman has been offered a mega-deal to pen Chrissie Watts' prison diaries.

The Black Widow killer, played by Tracy-Ann, is facing life behind bars for the murder of her husband Den Watts.

But EastEnders fans may not have seen the last of her, because the book project could even inspire a spin-off telly show starring Tracy-Ann, 36, about Chrissie's life inside.

An Albert Square insider said last night: "It could be a best-seller as far as interest from our fans is concerned."

"But there are many contractual difficulties to sort out."

SCOTT'S FREE

...and he's gonna fight for woman he loves

PASSION: Divorcee Dawn

EMMERDALE jailbird Scott Windsor is heading home – to fight for his woman.

Scott (Ben Freeman, 25) will realise he truly loves single mum Dawn Woods while he is in the nick.

The romeo mechanic was sent down for his assault on vet Paddy

■ by OLIVIA MATTHEWS

Kirk (Dominic Brunt, 35). He has cynically slept his way through the village over the years but will be devastated when Dawn (Julia Mallam, 23) visits the prison to dump him. She even tells him of her romance with handsome Danny Daggert (Cleveland Campbell, 26). But rejection strengthens Scott's resolve to battle for her love – in the nicest possible way.

Loathed

The one-time hell-raiser will return home a changed man – determined to make up for his past mistakes.

An Emmerdale insider confirmed: "Something life-changing must have happened to Scott in prison because he is unrecognisable from the man everyone knew and loathed.

"Put it this way he even offers to babysit Dawn's son TJ so she can have some private time with Danny.

"His time in prison has made him reflect on life."

WE'RE PLONKERS WHEN IT COMES TO WINE

BOOZY Brits are sipping record amounts of wine - but we still can't tell good from bad.

Millions have no idea how to pour, taste or choose their plonk, says a new study.

Most pick a bottle based on its price, shape or whether it has a cork or screwtop.

But few actually choose their tipple based on the quality, said researchers.

Coinnoisseurs like Prince

■ by MARK SOLOMONS

Charles, 57, (right) may know what makes a good glass of wine rather than plonk.

In London 61% make their choice according to which country the wine comes from, as do 57% of Scots.

Choice

But in the North only 30% care where it comes from and just 35% of Welsh think it matters.

Sometimes the choice is pretty much a basic red or white one according to more than half the buyers in the East Midlands and North West.

Other factors include what the label looks like and what kind of top it has, even though most experts point out that the look won't affect what's in the bottle.

Cono Sur's tips include avoiding the very cheapest wines but also the most expensive which are often not worth the money.

They advise buying wines with a rich colour which are not too watery-looking.

Boozing shame of kids

A QUARTER of all schoolchildren admit having got so drunk, they have passed out.

And 5% have been rushed to hospital to have their stomachs pumped after over-dosing on booze.

One in eight have taken a day off school because of a hangover, a new survey of 500 youngsters aged 12 to 17 revealed yesterday.

Youth worker Julian Hubback, who helped organise the survey in Weymouth, Dorset, described the results as "shocking".

I've flooded the engine!

LUCKY Bernice Dent had a miraculous escape after her car hit a lorry and plunged 10ft into an icy cold river. Emergency services raced against time to save the pensioner as her car was swept along the River Lune in Lancaster. The Citroen AX then floated to the other side of Skerton Bridge and headed towards the sea. The Morecambe coastguard helicopter and lifeboat were then called in to free Bernice, 70, from Barrow-in-Furness, Cumbria. She was eventually rescued and taken to the Royal Lancaster Infirmary, suffering from shock.

Just Jane

JANE O'GORMAN SOLVES YOUR PROBLEMS TODAY... AND EVERY DAY

Cheat claim hurts

I WENT down to Cornwall with a few mates a couple of weeks ago for a stag weekend and I promise I was faithful to my girlfriend. But she is convinced that I shagged some slapper because that's what all the other blokes who were with me did.

A couple of them spent their time in their hotel bedrooms with girls they had picked up in a club on the first night and the rest of the guys bedded girls they met the next day.

But I played no part in it and spent my time in the amusement arcade.

Bragging

When we got back home a couple of the blokes were bragging about what they were up to and my girlfriend got to hear about it.

Now I'm being accused of something I didn't do, but she just doesn't believe me.

JANE SAYS: It's going to be difficult getting hard evidence that you behaved yourself because all your mates were busy and there's no one who can back up what you say.

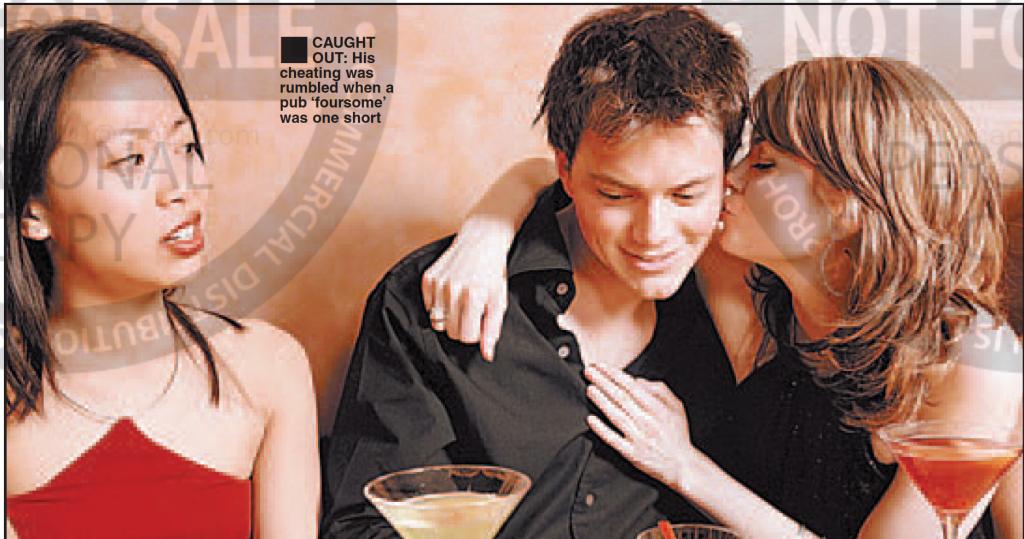

You have just got to appeal to your girlfriend and ask her to believe you.

She must know what you are like and whether you would cheat on her or not.

At the end of the day all you can do is plead your innocence.

If she chooses not to believe you then there is little you can do to convince her.

She'll end up being the loser because you were faithful to her when all your mates were cheating on their girlfriends.

I need my ex back

I'M living with my boyfriend, but I don't love him. I love my ex. It's all a mess and I don't know what to do.

Two years ago I decided that I didn't want to be with my ex any more, so I ended it and almost immediately I met my current bloke.

He seemed perfect and was so different from my ex. He moved into my flat within a month of us meeting.

But he's turned into a boring, self-opinionated bully and I hate him.

He's dreadful at sex, never says anything nice to me and is putting pressure on me to get married.

A couple of weeks ago I bumped into my ex at the supermarket and we got talking.

When I got home I cried for hours because I realised I'd made a huge mistake two years ago.

But how do I get rid of my current boyfriend so my ex can come back?

JANE SAYS: We all make mistakes and it seems that you have made two big ones.

First you split up with the love of your life, and then you allow someone to move in with you.

Clearly you have to ask your boyfriend to leave.

He might be a bully, but be brave and don't allow him to force you to change your mind. He's going to be furious but stick to your guns.

Before you decide to get back with your ex, I urge you to consider whether it's wise.

Remember why you split from him in the first place. Give yourself a couple of months before you get back with him full time.

WE WANT OUR REVENGE ON RAT

He's gone too far

I'VE just discovered that my boyfriend has been cheating on me with my best friend.

She thought he was HER boyfriend and is now in as much shock as I am that this rat has been two-timing her.

I used to see him three nights a week – and so did she.

We'd both told each other about our "new blokes" and thought they'd be sure to get on, since they sounded so alike. How were we to know it was the same bloke?

One night, we arranged for our new "boyfriends" to meet and for us all to go out together.

We all agreed to meet at the pub. But an hour before we were due to set off together, he rang me to say something had come up at work and he just couldn't make it.

I was very disappointed, but decided to go along on my own because I was dying to meet my friend's new guy.

Shock

You can imagine how I felt when I walked in and found my mate and my bloke sitting close and holding hands.

I suppose I was in shock. I certainly didn't realise what was going on. I just asked him how he'd managed to get out of the problem at work so quickly – and he just stared at me.

Then I asked my mate where her bloke was and she pointed at my guy and said: "This is him."

I was so taken aback.

But once I'd told her that this was actually my boyfriend, so was she.

The rat just sat there smirking. By the time we'd worked out that he'd been cheating us both, he'd vanished.

Now we want revenge. Got any suggestions?

(Calls cost 60p per minute from a BT landline)

BOOB JOB FOR XMAS

I LOVE my girlfriend to bits and she's perfect in every way but I'd love her to have bigger boobs.

I've never said anything to her about it so she's got no idea I'd like her to have more up top.

So I thought I'd give her a huge surprise at Christmas by giving her a boob job as her present. I know it's a bit extravagant, but I can afford it.

What I want to know is should I give her my present privately or at Christmas dinner with her family?

JANE SAYS: I don't think you should give her this present at all. You have no idea whether your girlfriend wants a boob job, and it's not something that you can take back to the shop because it's the wrong colour!

Before you splash out and book her in for implants you have got to ask her if it's what she wants.

I suggest you phone the Breast Implant Information Society (07041 471 225) for information before you get your cheque book out.

She might be horrified and then you'll have wasted your money and you won't have a back-up gift.

You may still be puzzled by a close relationship. But don't worry – by the end of the year you will be looking for affection from an unlikely source.

Aries

(Mar 21–Apr 20)

EVEN though you received a personal pledge, there is no guarantee that you will get what was promised or owed. Judging by what has just happened, all bets are off. Chances are, what is suggested now is the least expensive option – and you can certainly make do with it. To see why you have a much better shot at succeeding, call...

THE recent full moon indicates some kind of break from the past. Now you must gather your strength and dust yourself down as you're far from helpless. In fact, an offer that materialises between now and Friday is most timely – but it's best to keep quiet. To see why you should get the stamp of approval, call...

THE hottest celebs are getting caught up in a saucy new trend - fishnets. And if you fancy following in their footsteps, it's an easy way to add a touch of glam.

From chic bars and clubs to the red carpet, this foxy look has really made waves.

Madonna's video for Hung Up, her latest single, pays the ultimate homage to the hottest hosiery around. Layered under a daring purple leotard, the singer, 47, gives the trend an 80s dance studio twist.

Its massive celeb following means the fishnet has finally shed its fetish image and is hot to trot on any high street.

Shirley Feeney – buyer for ultimate hosiery boutique tightspose.co.uk – isn't surprised they're back in favour.

She says: "Fishnets have gone from being the domain of sexy 50s pin-up girls and the forefront of the punk-rock revolution to becoming the staple leg-wear of the rich and famous."

This time around, there's much more fun and glamour to be had from the look. And it's not all about black.

Hooked

Brands such as Jonathan Aston, Aristoc and Dior offer amazing style variations. There are oversized nets and a massive selection of colours to match any look.

Catching on to a celebrity trend has never been so cheap, either – at between £5 and £15. (See www.tightspose.co.uk for the biggest and best selection around.)

Fishnets are also the best way to get the hot burlesque look favoured by the likes of the Pussycat Dolls and Christina Aguilera, 24.

And with city shorts set to remain a big hit well into 2006 they are a great way to show off fishnet-clad pins, even if it means feeling a little chilly this time of year! The look is hot off the catwalk, where designers took inspiration from super-chic retro starlets.

And fishnets proved the perfect accessory to vamp up the ultra-feminine collections.

With all this exposure it's no wonder fishnets have got us well and truly hooked.

STOCKING UP: Paris

Hilton gives the look a saucy twist, Christina Aguilera, right, glams it up and Abi Titmuss, inset far right, goes for the kinky school-marm image

MATT BAYLIS

...ON LAST NIGHT'S TV

IT never rains much down CORONATION STREET (ITV1) – which is odd, considering the weather in the rest of Manchester. But it was bucketing down in last night's episode. Not to make things realistic, but so that the swanky trainers Jessie sold to Sally Webster could fall apart.

It was also raining in Dev's heart, as Sunita hid from him in the Rovers after she discovered that he's got more kids than Ma and Pa Walton. Matters were made worse when Dev finally received the keys to their new home. He got as far as the hallway, then stormed out. That was a daft move – he's got half a dozen children who could make good use of the place.

But it's been a brilliant turn of events. If this had been EastEnders, we'd have found out about it within a week of meeting him, and Sunita would be plotting to have him bumped off. Luckily, Sunita's revenge was much more soap-like – she's threatened to have an abortion.

Honest

Cheeky chef Jamie Oliver also lost his cool on JAMIE'S GREAT ESCAPE (C4) this week, as his road-trip took him to Altamura in Southern Italy. "Buongiorno!" he cried chirpily at an old granny sweeping the street as he swaggered past. She failed to return the greeting.

There's something very honest about this series. It can get rather boring hearing

Jamie going on about what a wonderful place Italy is. Yes, they eat good food. Yes, they all eat together at the table. But there's also a frustrating side to the Italian palate. They're not very adventurous – and some of Mr Oliver's dishes have had them wrinkling their noses.

When Jamie tried to knock up a classic salad in the street, he swore that if his host family didn't like it, he'd perform a very painful operation on himself with his carving knife. They didn't. Too many ingredients, they said. Jamie didn't mention the carving knife again, strangely. But he admitted he'd learned a lot from dealing with a different culture – even if he looked a bit less than perfect along the way.

A RICH man had three sons. One day he asked them what they day for Christmas.

The oldest said he'd like some golf clubs, so he bought him St Andrews and Gleneagles.

The second said he wanted a train set, so he bought him Virgin and the London Underground.

The youngest son said he'd like a cowboy outfit. So his dad bought him Sunderland FC.

Jokes by text...

LITTLE Nancy was in the garden filling a hole when her neighbour asked what she was doing. She said: "My goldfish died and I've just buried him." The neighbour said: "How sad! But that's a big hole for a goldfish, isn't it?" Nancy replied: "That's because he's inside your cat." SULLY FROM SWINDON

Q: WHAT'S THE BEST WINE AT CHRISTMAS? A: "I DON'T LIKE SPROUTS!" ANON

£10 LETTER

THE French did everything they could to oppose a UN resolution to remove the tyrant Saddam Hussein.

Their reward seems to have been weeks of rioting, with Muslim immigrants and others wrecking property right across the country.

A case of poetic justice?

P.M. TENNANT, Folkestone, Kent.

I DO hope Calum Best is not seriously planning to take his dad George for a champagne and lap dancing session (Daily Star, November 14). What is he trying to do – put temptation to the ultimate test? Just be thankful your father is still alive, Calum.

CAROL COWLEY, Walsall.

MYLEENE Klass really is different class (Daily Star, November 14). She's a classical pianist, a singer and now more than holding her own as a TV presenter. From what I've read, I gather she's a really nice person, too – and that's the best thing of all.
